

Vince Thomas, Jr.
Founder | Lead Pastor

Vince Thomas, Jr. was born and raised in Detroit, MI. He enrolled at Jackson State University to acquire a degree in Business Administration and to play collegiate baseball. While in Jackson, MS, he discovered his passion and gift in helping people.

Since 2005, he has operated in organizational leadership in a host of capacities that have focused on dealing with social issues that face people regardless of class or race. He believes in developing the “complete” individual, which is seen through the programs he has designed that focus on Arts, Athletics, Education, Leadership, and Media.

Vincent is a licensed and ordained minister by Apostle Frederick K.C. Price with Fellowship of Interfaith and Word of Faith Ministries (FICWFM). In March 2016, Vince and his lovely wife Ashley founded a leadership development organization – The Outlet Consulting, LLC. Their mission is to empower leaders for the purpose of building stronger communities. He travels extensively throughout the country speaking and conducting leadership trainings for schools, churches, non-profit organizations, for-profit entities, and conferences. On the collegiate level, Vince serves as an Adjunct Professor of Urban Leadership at Oglethorpe University (Atlanta, GA).

He is a sought-out advisor for high profile leaders and organizations locally, nationally, and globally. Most notably is his work in Washington, D.C. on Equity and Education that has allowed him to train leaders whose decisions directly affect millions of lives and billions of federal dollars. He also serves as Founder and Lead Pastor of The Outlet Community Church (Atlanta, GA).

Vince is a graduate of Rhema Bible College (Broken Arrow, Oklahoma) with a concentration in Pastoral Studies and of Beulah Heights University (Atlanta, GA) with a Bachelors of Arts in Religious Studies and Masters of Arts in Leadership Studies.

He places a high value on keeping God first in all that he does. In November 2010, he married the love of his life, Ashley, and together they are the proud parents of their son, Asher. They now reside in the metro Atlanta area.

Ashley Thomas

Co-Founder | Lead Pastor

Since the age of thirteen, Ashley has felt a strong call to share the love and grace of God throughout the entire world. Since 2007, Ashley, along with her husband Vince, have served in ministry together as children's, youth, and college campus directors. Although her first ministry is to her family, she has a great passion that involves speaking life into women, missions, along with curriculum and biblical educational development.

Ashley travels throughout the United States and Internationally speaking in schools, churches, and conferences. She enjoys being active within the community as well as empowering individuals to identify and fulfill their God-given gifts and talents. She earned a Bachelor of Science in Social Work and a Masters of Science in Leadership with a concentration in Human Resources from Belhaven University to further her desire in helping individuals, families, and communities. Ashley is also a graduate of Charis Bible College (Atlanta, GA) as well as a licensed and ordained minister by Andrew Wommack with Andrew Wommack Ministries International (AWMI).

In March 2016, Ashley and her husband, Vince, founded The Outlet Consulting, LLC. The Outlet Consulting is a leadership development organization with a mission to empower leaders to create life-giving environments through building churches, organizations, and communities.

Along with being the Co-founder of The Outlet Community, she also personally mentors ladies for the purpose of empowering women to lead their life.

Ashley and Vince have been married since November 2010 and are the proud parents of their son, Asher. They now reside in the metro Atlanta area.
